THE BRIDGE TERMINALS.

ACCEPTANCE BY THE TRUSTEES OF THE PLAN OF THE EXPERTS.

Only Two of the Suggestions Not Approved

These Relate to the Purchase of Land in This City as Well as in Brooklyn.

The trustees of the Brooklyn Bridge met in special session yesterday afternoon to act upon the report of the Board of Experts, who ten days ago submitted a plan for increasing the terminal and transportation facilities. Threefourths of the members of the Board, including Mayors Grant and Chapin, were present. Chairman McNulty of the Committee on Terminal Facilities submitted a report in which the plan of the experts was recommended for adoption, with the exception of the sixth and pinth suggestions. These points, upon which no agreement has been reached, are regarding the purchase of the triangular tract north of the present New York terminus and bounded by lark row and North William street; the parchase in Brooklyn of the entire block between Fulton. High, and Sands streets for a plaza and the widening of Liberty street to eighty feet. The experts recommended that the New York tract mentioned be taken for joint use by the bridge authorities and the elevated railroad. It is stated that the expense of acquiring all the property suggested and the making of other improvements included in the plan submitted would amount to nearly

it was moved that the report of the Committee on Terminal Facilities be adopted, and President Howell was about to put the question when United States District Attorney Jesse Johnson asked leave to be heard in opposition to some features of the report, on behalf of certain property owners. President Howeli remarked that objections might have been presented to the Board of Experts, or to the Committee on Terminal Facilities. Two or three trustees spoke up in behalf of Mr. Johnson, and the Board voted to allow him fifteen

Mr. Johnson argued that the plan submitted for adoption was the one which had been be-fere the Board for three or four years, and that it had always met with an opposition which represented a strong preponderance of public represented a strong preponderance of public sentiment. The objection was that it was proposed to take the first of what should be the linest avenue in the city merely for storage grains for ears, hast year, in order to remove the menaco which had made what should be the lost property in the city the porest, a compremise had been offered and agreed to by all concerned. It had been agreed that the property which should be taken above concerd street should be in the interior of the block, and not on the Washington street front. The land thus taken had no particular value and culd be acquired at low prices, while the beauty of Washington street would not be maried.

The land thus taken had no particular value and culd be acquired at low prices, while the beauty of Washington street would not be maried.

Tresident Howell interrupted to say that the compromise referred to by Mr. Johnson had never been adopted by the trustees.

"But it was accepted by representatives of the trustees." retorted Mr. Johnson, and no one will deny that such was the understanding. It was announced by the newspapers and accepted by the Legislature. The proposed plan yielded an equal area for storage, and the only difference was that it left Washington street the linest avenue in the city instead of making it what you see out of these windows to-day. It requires no argument to show that it can be done it ought to be done. To fall to do it would be vanualism and desceration. Upon the point of feasibility. I take the statements of the engineers of this Board and of many eigineering experis, who say it can be done without difficulty. It is perfectly feasible to keep the bridge station where it is, and thus gain 200 feet and locate it over Sands street. You have pienty of room for storage with the prosent equipment of polling stock. I have a map, drawn by Engineer Martin, showing ample space for storing double the present number of cars according to the plan I propose. By moving 200 feet further south you move that distance away from your cables and the real terminus of the bridge, and plunge into the heart of Brooklym. This was all settled last year. Public elamor upon this point was quieted, and itwould be wrong to revive to by taking frontage ground for storage. Take the interior of the blook and show that you do to Tillary street by your plan. The only difference is, your plan tresser to my dot tracks and the experts plan by straight tracks.

Mr. Johnson—It is said that slightly curved tracks are not good enough for storage. My proposition is that they are and that it is a greater evil to move away from the present

Mr. Johnson—It is said that slightly curved tracks are not good enough for storage. My proposition is that they are and that it is a greater svil to move away from the present terminus of the bridge.

President Howell cut short Mr. Johnson's argument under the time limit.

Comptroller Myes didn't see how the bridge would save anything by merely substituting crooked tracks for straight once. President Howell declared that the bridge engineers now say that it would be impossible to operate trains, using the interior of the block for storage insteal of the Washington street front. Comptroller Myers asked it the experts had not adopted the plans proposed after giving ample opportunity for the consideration of the objections now urged. Mr. Howell replied in the affirmative, but Mr. Johnson declared that the public had no means of knowing that such a plan was before the experis, and therefore has no opportunity of being heard in opposition to it.

Mayor Grant said the Board of Experts were certainly quite competent to deal with all the objections to the plan they had recommended. The public has full confidence that they have recommended what is for the best under all the circumstances. He believed it would be recommended what is for the best under all the circumstances. He believed it would be exceedingly dangerous for the trustees to attempt to improve the plan by altering one of its essential details.

Mr. Johnson said he would be very glad to have his objection go before the same Board of Experts and to abide by their decision as to the practicability of his propositions.

Tresident Howell, in reply to a question, said be presumed the plan advected by Mr. Johnson would be cheaper than that recommended by the experts. Trustice Wormser wanted to know what the plan as recommended by the experts would cost, and Chairman McNuity of the Terminal Parilities Committee said it was salimated the expense of that pertion on which the committee had reported, exclusive of additional land to releases in New York, and on the west of the present location in Brookly, would be $1,500,000.

The Beard 1 nead of the roll, voted unanimously in favor of the adoption of such personnel and present commended the expense.

The Board I is call of the roll, voted unanimously in favor of the adoption of such portion of the experts plan as was recommonded in the report of the committee.

Trustee McNuity offered a resolution authorizing President Howell to nurchase the property fronting on the west side of Washington street between Concord and Tillary streets, about 105 feet deep. President Howell said the estimated cost of the property was $630,000, which was double its assessed value. On motion of Compitation was amended so that the approval of the Finance Committee should be necessary to the completion of the purchase. In case an competion of the purchase. In case an agreement could not be arrived at with the owners, the resolution authorized the acquiring of the projecty by eminent domain. In that shape the resolution passed unanimously.

Scranton Democrats Try John A. Logan's

SCRANTON, Jan. 10.-The Democrats of the Eighth ward to-day made an effort to secure the control of the city government. When Councilman Flanagan was elected County Commissioner and resigned his former office a few weeks ago he left the select council, which few wooks ago he left the select council, which controls the patronage of the city, a tie. A week ago Victor koch was nominated for the vacancy by the Republicans, and, as he was very wealthy and boular, the Democrats thought it lest to endorse him. When the pols opened at the election this morning it was found the Democrats had put a candidate in the field during the right. It was nearly noon before the Vepublicans discovered that their candidate was in danger of defeat. Then the fight resolved itself into a novel and electrinized one, the Republicans finally winning by a narrow morgin. This probably means the dismissal of all the Democratic policemen and other office holders of that party.

A PROTEST AGAINST FREE COINAGE. Boston Citizens Meet at Fancuit Hall and

Boston, Jan. 20.-Fancuil Hall, floor and gallery, was packed at noon to-day at the call of Mayor Matthews, to formally protest against the free coinage of silver. Among those on the platform were Gov. Russell, Henry L. Pierce, Henry L. Higginson, Henry M. Whitney, Edward Atkinson, Hersey B. Goodwin, H. H. Sprague, President of the State Senate; President Gates of Amherst College, J. R. Leeson, Henry Lee, Col. E. Haskell, Gen. P. A. Walker, Curtis Guild, Jr., A. H. Evans, Col. Henry W. Switt. Henry Parkman, R. H. Gardiner, Sherman Hoar, J. O. Burdette, the Rev. W. E. Winship, Gen. William Osborne, Dana Estes, William Endicott, Jr., Roger Walcott, Josiah Quincy.

Henry L. Pierce called the meeting to order, and introduced Henry L. Higginson as presiding officer. The latter announced that the meeting was one of protest only, and that the speakers were to be limited to five minutes each. Addresses were delivered by Gen. Walker, Jonathan A. Lane, President of the Boston Merchants' Association; the Hon. Franklin Haven, Jr., President of the Merchants' Bank : the Hon. Edward Atkinson, William C. Lovering, Henry M. Whitney, T. J. Coolidge, Col. E. H. Haskell, William J. Goulding, Osborne Howes, Jr., and others,

Gen. F. A. Walker, in his address, said that while he did not desire the demonstization of silver, he believed that the present bill would result in evil. He considered the free coinage of silver dishonest delusive, and destructive. Mr. Lane sait that neither gold nor silver were really wanted, but paper as good as gold. Mr. Haven said that only about 5 per cent. of Mr. Haven said that only about 5 per cent. of all transactions are settled in cash and this small per entage should be the best money.

Mr. Atkinson said in his speech: "A small fraction of Senators from remote or border States, whose population altogether would fall far short of that of several single States in the rice. West, as well as in the East, have combined together a representatives of sliver name, eather than of the people, to force into circulation a delar made of sliver which will not meet the test by which the first unit of value must be tried, that is, the test by fire, until the value of the sliver dollar now coined shall have been brought up to par with gold the sliver dollar of the present coinage will not meet the test by fire. It is not a just and true standard. It may be worth soventy, eighty, nine, yee, for a little, even a hundred cents, and yet no one can tell what it will be worth to next week, next month, or next year. and yet no me can tell what it will be worth the next week, next month, or next year. Such a dollar is not lik to be the standard or unit of value of a great commercial nation. We will not have it and we can defend our-selves against the fraud. It is the same mis-take that was made both here and in Wash-ington in respect to the greenback eraze be-fore the initiation; bill was vetoed by Gen.

ington in respect to the greenback eraze before the inflation; bill was vetoed by Gen. Gran.

"The farmers, workmen, manufacturers, and all the solid sense of this country is against this measure. What Massachusetts would say against it has been said again in burning words in the Senate of the United Sintes in the detait just ended. While her own Senators, alas, were slient, the words of Webster, repeated by John Sherman, were lieated once more. Webster denounced all tampering with the standard of value. He condemned this bill and every other bill like it when he said that such measures 'incilied the rice man's field with the sweat of the poor man's brow.

"Let us call upon the Executive and the Legislature of the State to see to it that an act is passed to this end—that in all contracts entered into after the passage of this act in which dollars are named in promise the courts shall construct that the dollar meant and promised is the best dollar that can be made—the dollar of gold coin. The law will sustain the contract, We will force no man to take good money who prefers bad money; but we will allow no man with n the limits of our Commonwealth to be forced to take bad money who ought to have the best money that can be made."

Resolutions were unanimously adopted requesting the Speaker of the House of Representatives "to exercise his legitimate influence to secure due consideration of the bill," and appealing to the President "to interpose his vecto."

Congressman-elect Sherman Hoar said: "It has been said that there are no politics in this Bank Examiner J. F. Marshali, with a large corps of assistants, was busy to-day examining into the condition of the American National Bank. He said his report to the Comptroller would probably not be made for three weeks. There is some talk of the bank's issuming business. President Stimson says that if the stockholders care to repair the impaired capital of the bank, he sees nothing to prevent resumption. The only effect of the failure in ilnancial circles here is the run on the KansacCity Savings Bank, which was unfortunate enough to be in the same building with the American Bank. The stock of the bank was held principally in the East, and inasmuch as the depositors will probably be paid in full, the effect upon local business men will be slight.

Mrs. Steffens was not made aware of the arrangements, and when Spiccio sought his prospective bride on Monday night her mother vetoel the project. The first said she was willing to marry him, and would do so but for her mother's objections.

The ardent but disappointed lover became so noisy and demonstrative that two policemen were summoned and they ejected him. Yesterday morning he went to the house again ar ned with a big knife and threatened to kill Mrs. Steffens and her daughter, He chased them around the rooms with the knife.

GOV. PATTISON SWORN IN.

Pennsylvania's Chief Executive a Secon

Hannisbung, Jan. 20,-Before 8 o'clock this morning the streets were thronged with visitors who had come to be present at the inauguration of Gov. Pattison. The ceremonies began at 11:30, when Gov. Beaver and Governor-elect Pattison. Lieut,-Governor Stone, and Lieutenant-Governor-elect Watres, and the joint committees of the Fenate and House of Representatives. heads of departments, and other invited guests met at the Executive Mansion and proceeded to the west portico of the Capitol, under escort. where the ceremonies took place. Among the guests were Chief Justice Paxson and Justices James P. Sterrett, Henry Green. J. Brewster McCullom, James T. Michell, and Silas M. Clark: Major-Gen, Snowden and staff. and the three Brigadier-Generals and their staffs, all in carriages; the carriages escorted by the Eighth Regiment, Col. P. J. Magee commanding. The Governor's Troop acted as a guard of honor, under command of Lieut. F.

At the portice of the Capitol the Rev. Dr. S. C. Swallow offered prayer.

The Clerk of the Senate then read the certificate of election, and Chief Justice Paxson administered the oath. Justice Clark was ansounced to perform that duty, but as the full Court was present Justice Clark deferred to his chief. The new Governor then delivered his inaugural address. In it he said:

Four estecially important problems con-his inaugural address. In it he said:

"Four estecially important problems confront us: First, constitutional enforcement: second the purification of elections, involving ballot roform, personal registration, and the prevention of the misuse of money in polities; third, taxation; fourth, municipal government.

"When the modern State, in the exercise of its sovereign power, created that extraordinary resilty called, in the irony of the law, an articleal person, it produced a being almost ounlibotent for good and for evil. To deny the great benefits conferred upon society by corporate capital would be as futile as it would be found to be folded by a mediary of the bords connected therewith in a democratic community. Many a modern charter enables a single man to wield powers greater than were ever wielded by a mediaryal King; and these powers, exercised under the broad seal of the State, may be and have been wielded notoriously to the injury of the State and of her people. The State, therefore, having created these artificial persons and clothed there with enormous powers should protect herself and her natural children against their abuse and misuse.

"The Constitution requires that all elections are not secured by existing laws. Nor is our ballet secret. The sovereignty of the people depends for its efficiency upon the cooperate intelligence and the incorruptible integrity of the sovereign. To make sure of the prophe depends for its efficiency upon the cooperate intelligence and the incorruptible integrity of the povereign. To make sure of the former we have stabilished our public schools; to make sure of the latter we have adopted the ballot box, and have thrown a round it the protection of peculiar laws. It is not a more local agitation that underlies the protection of choice, and there is abundant testimony that it is the test, the most rapid and incide mode of obtaining the unbiassed wish and mind of the voters. I will heartily favor any well-considered logislation which will accompletely changed the appet of or parsimony of the mine owner."

The benediction was proncused by Dr. Swallow, and the officials then adjourned to the Senate chamber, where the oath of office was administered to the Lieutenant-Governor, who made a short address. At 12:30 the civic organizations began to form with the military on North Front street, right resting on Market street. Promptly at 1:30 the signal beomed from three guns in Capitol Park, and the order to advance was given by Col. Awl, the chief marshal. As the rear of the line reached West state street on the countermarch the column halled, and the Governor passed down the line to the Executive Mansion, being saluted by the troops.

A sad incident of the day, and one which had a decressing effect upon the division of the National Guard, was the death of Capt. Thomas F. Maioney, commander of Company D. Eighth Regiment, whose body was found in the river below the Cumberland Valley Railroad bridge this morning. It is not known how the accident happened, but it is supposed he walked through the onen bridge.

Gov. Pattison sent to the Senate this afternoon a communication stating that he had appointed William F. Harrity of Philadelphia Secretary of State, William D. Hencel of Lancaster Attorney-General, and William McCleiland of Pittsburgh Attorney-General. The Fenate went into executive session and confirmed the nominations by a unanimous vote. In the evening Gov. Pattison and Cabinet gave a reception at the Executive Mansion.

MARRIED AT 18 HOURS' NOTICE. Miss Buttre's Lover Ordered Off to Florida, and It Had to Be. Society in Ridgewood, N. J., received an unusual surprise last Sunday morning, following the regular service in Christ Church. Before the benediction the rector invited the congregation to remain and witness the marriage cerof Mr. J. C. Buttre, and Mr. Theodore Winans of Chicago. The engagement of this young couple had been announced some months ago, and Ridgewood anticinated an event of unusual brilliance when the nuptial knot should be tied, because Miss Buttre is not only a young woman of more than ordinary beauty and intelligence, but possessed of many other quellities that made her a great favorite.

Mr. Winans, however, was forced to throw a chill upon all the glowing exceptations. On Saturday he was ordered to Florida on business that will detain him for at least a year, and as this period was suggestive of an analogy to the story of the Governors of the Carolinas it was resolved to terminate the courtship by marriage. Fifteen hours after she received notice of the situation Miss Buttre became Mrs. Winans, and standing before the altar in a gown of plain white silk, with a bunch of white reachours, she was declared to be as fair a bride as Ridgewood ever admired. Three hours after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Winans started for Florida. couple had been announced some months

Judges Gresham'and Blodgett rendered a decision yesterday at Chicago, in the United States Circuit Court, on motion made by the States Circuit Court, on motion made by the States Company to enjoin the Wagner Company and the railroads using the Wagner cars from the use of vestibules. The Court denied the motion for injunction and sustained the Wagner Company on every point, thus refusing to follow the Boston decision made recently by Judge Colt.

A bill was introduced into the Maine Legislature resterday authorizing the Boston and Biaine Railroad to increase its capital stock $5,000,000, the proceeds to be devoted to providing additional property and squipment for the road, to construct additional railroads, and the payment and reduction of debts. The officers of the read say that they will soon have to double-track thirty-five additional miles of the western division, at a cost of $7,00,000, and about sixty-four miles of the castern division, at a cost of $1,280,000.

In accordance with a solemn agreement made by the members of the Executive Com-mittee of the Trunk Line Association, rester-day was the day when all the lines were to turn over a new leaf. The roads had charged one over a new leaf. The roads had charged one another with many outrageous reductions on most bound freight out of New York so that shippers had been in clover for several months. The Pennsylvania and New York Central didn't secape accusation this time, as they generally do.

The Southwestern Railway and Steamship Association, after a three days' session at the Windsor, decided yeterday, among other things, to raise freight rates from Galveston. Houston, and other Gulf of Mexico points to Colorado and Utah on Feb. 7, in harmony with the recent raise of rates out of Chicago and St. Louis. The advance is 5 cents on first class and 1 to 4 on the lower classes. It is likely that the association will also reach some understanding before it adjourns for higher seaboard rates and all-rail rates between New York and Boston and Texas points, in which there was general demoralization some weeks ago.

In the matter of the accident on the Third arenue elevated railroad on Jan. 11, by which Engineer Metz was injured and his engine thrown into the street, the State Board of Railroad Commissioners have decided that that amount of carelessness or negligence was not shown by any of the employees of the road to justify severe discipline, particularly in view of the fact that they are all careful men with good records. The Board recommends that the commany exercise increased care in permitting cars to be taken from the centre to either the un-town or down-town track.

GILLILAND'S REPLY TO EDISON. He Says that Edison was Once Bankrupt and He Helped Him Out. Answers were filed yesterday by Ezra T. brought against them in the United States Circuit Court by Thomas Edison in May. 1889. Edi-on alleged that Gilliland and Tomlinson the former while acting as his confidentia agent and the latter as his attorney, practically swindled him out of $250,000. He asserted that as his representatives they sold to Jesse H. Lippincott his stock in the Edison Phonograph Company ostensibly for $500,000, but that, in fact, they secretly agreed with Lippincott that Company ostensibly for $500,000, but that, in fact, they secretly agreed with Lippincott that Gilliand was to receive in addition $250,000 stock in the new phonograph company he was to form. This additional $250,000 Edison claimed he should have received.

Gilliand, in his answer, denies that he was ever a confidential agent for Edison, or employed by him in any capacity. He says that he has been an inventor in electrical and other fields, and in 1884 was general superintendent of the mechanical department of the American Bell Telephone Company in Boston and induced him to resign his position and course of New York and collaborate with him in matters of invention. At that time stock in the Edison Electric Light. Company was selling below par and was paying no dividends; stocks in other companies formed by Edison were valueless and unsalable. Edison himself was financially embarrassed his laboratory at Menio Park being closed, and his property there having been sold out by the Sheriff. When he came to New York with Edison no partnership agreement was made, but they mutually agreed to share equitably in the profits of any inventions they might make. The only two inventions they might make. The only two inventions they might make. The only two inventions they moduced that brought any profit were the railway telegraph and the phonograph. And these were suggested and in the main developed, so he claims, by Gilliand. At the defoudant's instance the Edison Phonograph Company was formed and its slock became valuable. Edison, he asserts, was satisfied with the stock. The fact that Lippincott from his stock. The fact that Lippincott from the Edison Phonograph Company was formed and its slock became valuable. Edison, he asserts, was satisfied with the stock purchased by Lippincott from the Edison Phonograph Company, without which the stock purchased by Lippincott from the Edison Phonograph Company without which the search of special relation of attorney or counsel. The remainder of his answer is mainly a corroboration of
